ABOUT MSI

Your ISO Partner Since 1998

MSI is a veteran-owned, woman-owned ISO consulting and training firm. LearningPaths is built from the same work we do for clients: implementing management systems, sitting beside registrars in certification audits, and running internal audits.

Founding Partner notice

LearningPaths is in active development with a small group of Founding Partners: multi-site organizations helping shape how the license works across all their locations. We are looking for three sizes of organization, preferably multi-standard, with at least one small business. Founding Partner pricing is locked in at signing and will not be offered after public launch. Details in this overview may change as Founding Partners give input.

THE ISO TRAINING CHALLENGE

Your Sites Aren't Failing the Standard. They're Interpreting It Differently.

"After 200+ certification audits, the pattern is clear: it's rarely that a site doesn't know the requirement. It's that two sites of the same company are applying it two different ways, and the auditor finds the gap between them."

Diana Lynn, Founder and President, MSI

01

Per-course pricing limits access

When training is bought one course and one person at a time, managers delay it to control cost, often until just before an audit, when it is too late to build real competence.

02

Competence is uneven across roles

Leaders, the workforce and internal auditors each need something different. One-off courses leave gaps between them, and auditors find those gaps first.

03

Building content is expensive

Writing ISO-specific, role-aligned training takes years of audit experience and real budget. Most organizations never do it, and their records show it.

THE LEARNINGPATHS SOLUTION

One License. Entire Organization. All Year.

LearningPaths gives your organization access to MSI's full ISO course library, organized into four learning paths by role. Training stops being an event you buy before an audit and becomes infrastructure that keeps knowledge, awareness and audit competence current, for new hires, role changes and every audit cycle.

FOR YOUR QUALITY OR EHS DIRECTOR

How to Judge Whether This Training Will Hold Up

If you are reviewing LearningPaths for your organization, these are the answers to the questions auditors ask about training.

Mapped to the clauses

Every course states its learning objectives and the clauses they map to. Example, ISO 9001:2026 Leadership & Commitment:

Module	Clauses
1. What leadership means	5.1.1, 5.1.2
2. Setting direction	4.1–4.4, 5.2, 6.2, 5.1.1 i), 7.3 e)
3. The operating rhythm	5.3, 6.3, 7.1, 7.1.6, 7.4
4. Management review	9.3, 9.1.3, 7.5

Effectiveness, not just completion

ISO 9001 asks you to evaluate whether training worked. MSI courses are built for that, in three levels:

- Knowledge: a graded check at the end of each module, 80% to pass
- Application: an exercise using your own organization, graded by MSI before the certificate is issued (auditor and leadership courses)
- On the job: a 90-day checklist your manager completes, for your training record

Built by practitioners

Courses are written and narrated from MSI's field work: 200+ registrar certification and surveillance audits, 80+ companies certified with 100% first-attempt success, and ongoing internal audits for client companies. Each course includes "From the Audit Room" segments on what auditors actually ask and where companies get written up.

Current with the standard

Courses state the edition they reflect. ISO 9001:2026 and ISO 14001:2026 updates are included in the license. No ISO standard text is reproduced; requirements are paraphrased and cited by clause.

WHY CERTIFICATION BODY TRAINING ISN'T ENOUGH

Where LearningPaths Fits

Your certification body audits you. It is not set up to keep every leader, employee and internal auditor current all year. MSI is independent and supports whichever certification body you choose.

WHY MSI?

What Sets LearningPaths Apart

For 28 years, MSI has worked with organizations that want more than compliance. Our training comes from real audits, real system failures and real registrar expectations, not textbook theory.

01

ISO-specific depth

Every course is built around a specific ISO standard and edition, so your people train on exactly what auditors expect.

02

Role-based alignment

Four paths match the people auditors question: leaders, the workforce, developing auditors and qualified auditors.

03

200+ audits. 80+ companies certified.

MSI has sat beside registrars in more than 200 certification and surveillance audits, and every one of its 80+ certified clients passed on the first attempt.

04

Infrastructure pricing

One predictable annual cost by tier, instead of per-course and per-person invoices.

05

Current with the 2026 editions

ISO 9001:2026 and ISO 14001:2026 updates are included as they are released, at no extra cost.

06

Cross-site consistency

Every employee at every location learns the standard the same way, the way auditors apply it. White-label delivery is available as an upgrade.

Training one leader first? Many organizations start with a single course, such as the ISO 9001:2026 Leadership & Commitment Workshop, then license the library for the team.
